Swiss Press Photo 2008

This year, the jury viewed and judged 1791 pictures from 135 photographers. They were assisted by two representatives from Germany and France who are responsible for the photography in the magazines "Stern" and "Geo". The competition helps raise the profile of Swiss press photography. "Swiss Review" has decided to parade a small selection of the winning photographs.

Alessandro Della Bella: Banking crisis. Marcel Ospel, head of UBS, stepped down after heavy criticism at the AGM in April.

Didier Ruef: Railway workers on strike. The restructuring plan of SBB Cargo in Bellinzona involves 200 job cuts.

Michael Buholzer: Alexander Frei, captain of the Swiss football team, limps out of the opening game of Euro 2008 against the Czechs.

Stefan Wermuth: Roland Nef, Swiss army chief, stepped down in summer amid media allegations of criminal prosecution for harassment.

Charles Ellena: A counter-demonstration halts the SVP's march through Berne, giving Christoph and Silvia Blocher a closely guarded break.

Peter Klaunzer: The political left in the Council applauds the news of Christoph Blocher's failure to get elected.
