QUESTION AND ANSWER COLUMN*Question:*

I have a relative in Switzerland who is getting on in age and who is not too well off and I would like to help him a bit financially. How can I do this?

Answer:

Get your relative to send you an officially signed and translated statement (amtlich bestaetigt und uebersetzt) from the place where he lives, that he is unable to support himself and then take this document to your local Bank-Manager and state the amount of your intended help. He will pass these informations on to the Reserve Bank for approval.

THREE BUILD A PLANE—NO ONE ABLE TO FLY

Rapperswil, Switzerland: A brand-new sporting plane of the French "Jodel" type was the result of more than 3000 hours of hard work which the three sons of a Rapperswil family, Jules, Sepp and Hermann Huber, had devoted to their special hobby. Although their vocation—Jules is a merchant, Sepp a mason and Hermann a locksmith—does not imply any connection with the construction of planes, the three lads managed to build an aircraft which successfully passed the severe examinations by the Swiss authorities. The most astonishing point is that none of the three young men is able to pilot a plane.

MORE THAN 100,000 SWISS FRANCS FOR LITTLE MARLENE

Neuchatel, Switzerland: Far more than one hundred thousand Swiss francs from all over the country recently poured into the sickroom of little Marlene Audetat who lost one leg and one foot in a railway accident at Neuchatel a few weeks ago. The overwhelming success of this money-raising campaign came as a surprise even to the traditionally charity-minded Swiss and was an encouraging token of sympathy to little Marlene who bravely and hopefully carries her burden.

Old-timer Victor Sohm, probably the oldest pioneer of skiing in the Alps, recently celebrated his 89th birthday at Trogen, Switzerland. The "grand old man of skiing" still taught his grandchildren the ropes of skiing no less than two years ago.

THE ROLE OF THE STATE IN THE SWISS ECONOMY

During a recent Congress, Mr. Feldmann, Federal Councillor and Head of the Department of Justice and Police, applied himself to an analysis of the relations between economy and politics. When examining more specifically the ascendancy—so often criticised—of the State over certain branches of economy, Mr. Feldmann stressed the fact that the State, being as it is the generator and the custodian of law, cannot but be interested in economic and social questions. Intervention on the part of the public authorities is not an aim, but a means; it is the ransom of that social peace which is enjoyed in Switzerland and which it is necessary to safeguard at any price.

A NEW SWISS CHEMICAL PRODUCT

The Swiss chemical industry has recently perfected a steroid, which has now been patented in nineteen countries under the name of Skinostelon. This new product possesses a regenerative action on the skin. Contrary to the effect of hormones which are used in this domain, the action of Skinostelon is limited strictly to the skin, which makes it possible for it to be used in cosmetics. A keen interest in it is being shown by big foreign firms.

SWITZERLAND WILL NOT BE LEFT BEHIND IN THE PEACEFUL USE OF ATOMIC ENERGY

A Congress of the International Union of Producers and Distributors of Electric Energy (UNIPED) is now taking place in Lausanne. In his inaugural address, Federal Councilor Lepori, the Head of the Federal Department of Posts and Railways, recalled the efforts undertaken by Switzerland to intensify the exploitation of her hydro-electric forces. The national production of electric power amounts, at present, to approximately sixteen thousand million kwh. per year, the projects which are now being studied or else are in a fair way of being realised, will make it possible, by 1975, for this figure to be doubled; even then, this will not be sufficient. That is why, Mr. Lepori went on to say, Switzerland, in spite of her abundant hydraulic riches, will have to take "the atomic way," nuclear energy being indicated to furnish the necessary relief.

Matterhorn peak by Britain's mountaineering pioneer Edward Whymper back in 1865. Most of the shooting will be done at Zermatt, in the Valais, commencing at the beginning of July.
