GOLD SMUGGLING.

ROMANSCHE.

It may be of interest to recall that the first complete translation of the Bible into that branch of the Romansch language known as Rhaeto-Romansch (spoken in the Upper Rhine valley) published at Chur in 1718 was dedicated to George I, who acknowledged the compliment with a gift of 50 guineas. Archdeacon Cox relates that this sum was seized by the printer, Andrea Pfeffer, and that the editors of the work received none of it. It is a matter for great satisfaction that this remarkable language, for the preservation and development of which the name of Zaccaria Pallioppi deserves not to be forgotten, should now be assured of its future.

SWISS APPEAL FOR NEUTRAL ZONE.

The Swiss Federal Government, deploring the effects of the bombardment of Madrid, have instructed M. LEU & CO.'S BANK.

At a recent meeting of bondholders of Leu and Co.'s Bank, full particulars were announced pertaining to the reorganisation.

It will be recalled that at the beginning of January last the bank was granted a three months' moratorium on its liabilities. Since the directors were unable to reorganise the bank while the moratorium was in force, a new moratorium had to be granted by the authorities which expired at the end of last month. In accordance with the new Swiss banking legislation, however, the moratorium is automatically extended until the final stage of the reorganisation has been reached.

The reorganisation measures, which have to be approved by the authorities, provide for the reduction of the share capital, at present amounting to 40,000,000 Swiss francs, to 6,000,000 Sw.f., later to be increased to 7,000,000 Sw.f. by the issue of new shares.

Creditors' claims are reduced by 35 per cent. As a compensation, creditors will receive 10 per cent. in Preference shares of the reorganised bank, and 25 per cent. in the form of a holding in a company which will be specially formed for the purpose of taking over Leu and Co.'s frozen assets which amount to 64,000,000 Swiss francs.

Moreover, holders of the bank's bonds are expected to agree to a postponement of the date of maturity and a reduction of the rate of interest to 4 per cent.

GENEVA.

A bronze bust, executed by Jules Trembley, sculptor, was unveiled at the University of Geneva in memory of the late Professor and rector of the University, M. Robert Chodat.

Mr. John G. McNaughten, correspondent of the British United Press in Geneva, was killed on the Rochers-de-Nay.

Mr. McNaughten, who went to Caux on Thursday for a few days' holiday, started off alone to go on the Rochers de Naye, the ascent of which is not at all a mountain climb in the true sense of the term, but only a steep walk. As he did not return to his hotel last night a search was made this morning, and his body was found about 1,300 feet below the place where he appeared to have lost his footing. The nails in his boots were clogged with frozen snow, and it is supposed he lost his way and slipped, perhaps because the night had overtaken him. His injuries were so severe that it is thought death must have been instantaneous.

Mr. McNaughten, who was only 27 years old, was a Canadian and a son of Dr. Francis McNaughten, of West Mount, near Montreal. He had been in Geneva for about seven years. He had a post, first, in connection with the International Students' Service and then on the staff of the permanent Canadian Delegation to the League of Nations. About a year ago he was appointed assistant to Mr. Wallace Carroll, Geneva correspondent of the United Press of America.

Mr. McNaughten was a young man of remarkably attractive character and keen intelligence, who had already, short as his journalistic career had been, shown himself to be an excellent journalist, as careful and scrupulous as he was able.
