TWO DEAD IN SWISS AIR CRASH.

A collision in mid-air between two Swiss military 'planes resulted in the death of both the pilots; they are: Lieutenant Ernst Meier from Watt (Zurich) born in 1910, and Lieutenant Henry Rochaix from Chavannes, born in 1913.

One of them made a vain attempt to jump, but before his parachute opened, he was struck by the wing of his 'plane as it fell. The accident, which took place above Zurich, resulted from an error when the unit, of which the two 'planes formed a part, tried to change formation.

BLACK-OUT OF ALL SWITZERLAND.

The League of Nations has been asked by the Swiss Federal authorities to co-operate in the precautions against air raids which are being taken in Geneva.

Plans are being made for a complete "black-out" of all Switzerland at a moment's notice. All windows are to be fitted with shutters or heavy paper screens to prevent any light escaping, while exposed lights will be extinguished or re-placed by expell blue headed by the graph light would be a proper light of the problem. placed by small blue hooded bulbs.

THE PROGRESS OF WIRELESS.

The number of wireless receiving sets in Switzerland was 465,000 at the end of 1936; an increase of 46,000 over the previous year.

SWITZERLAND IS ONE OF THE BEST-LIGHTED COUNTRIES OF EUROPE.

According to a recent census, the consumption of electricity in Switzerland for private and public lighting amounts to 47 kilowatt-hours per inhabitant per year, whilst for Europe as a whole, the average annual consumption per inhabitant is only about 20 kilowatt-hours. The value of Switzerland's annual consumption of current for lighting is estimated at 80 million francs.

SWITZERLAND, COUNTRY OF INDUSTRIAL INVENTIONS.

According to recent statistics, demands for patents in Switzerland since 1925 represent annually 9.3 per 10,000 inhabitants.

Switzerland thus takes first place, followed by Germany with 8.9 and the United States with 6.4. Inventious are particularly numerous in connection with heating apparatuses, refrigera-tors, electrical appliances, household articles, sanitary articles, and machines for the textile in-dustry. The large number of patents which are renewed each year goes to prove that the inven-tions they cover have a real industrial value.

RIVER NAVIGATION IN SWITZERLAND.

Traffic from the port of Basle reached in 1936 approximately 2.3 million tons — an increase of 74,000 tons as compared with 1935.

LA POLITIQUE. Débats en perspective.

Débats en perspective.

Lundi soir, à la séance de rentrée, le Conseil national s'occupera du projet de loi sur le désendettement agricole, qui fera, selon toute probabilité, s'ouvrir largement les écluses de l'éloquence parlementaire. On attend en particulier un discours de M. Quartenoud, de Fribourg, qui devient, de session en session, un des porte-parole les plus autorisés des paysans. Le député de Fribourg aura un duel avec son ami, M. Rossi, du Tessin, rapporteur de la majorité de la commission, lequel, jeudi dernier, a fait maintes réserves sur les conséquences financières du projet, tandis que le rapporteur de langue allemande, M. Studer, de Lucerne, avait déposé une motion de renvoi à la commission.

A l'époque où fut publié le message du Con-

A l'époque où fut publié le message du Con-seil fédéral, c'est-à-dire l'été dernier, nous avons exposé en détail le but de cette œuvre de secours exposé en détail le but de cette œuvre de secours à l'agriculture et les moyens envisagés pour la réaliser. Rappelons simplement aujourd'hui que la loi comporte deux principaux éléments : d'une part, une aide financière immédiate, après estimation, aux propriétaires ruraux surendettés; d'autre part, des mesures préventives, destinées à empêcher, à l'avenir, certaines opérations vouées à un insuccès fatal notamment la constituire d'invertième pour des sourmes avaédant la tion d'hypothèques pour des sommes excédant la valeur réelle de l'immeuble.

On s'accorde à reconnaître que ces précau-tions répondent à une nécessité, ou du moins peuvent être fort utiles. En revanche, les avis divergent sur l'aide financière même, qui pose le redoutable principe d'un droit des particuliers à un appui matériel de l'Etat, à la suite de pertes a un appur materier de l'Etat, a la safte de pertes essuyées, par leur faute ou par celle des circonstances. De plus, le projet du Conseil fédéral, daté du mois de juin et qui fut élaboré au cours des mois précédents, est antérieur à la dévaluation, qui peut avoir modifié les données du problème, dans une mesure qu'il importerait de conseitre.

Tel est justement le motif pour lequel MM. Rossi et consorts demandent la disjonction des deux parties du projet et le renvoi pour nouvelle étude de tout ce qui touche à la participation financière de la Confédération. Le fait que cette opinion ait triomphé à la commission est carac-téristique: le subventionnement à tour de bras va-t-il cesser de faire figure de doctrine orthodoxe, sous la coupole fédérale? Combien l'on aimerait à l'espérer!

Mais les paysans, déjà, fourbissent leurs armes. Ils ne vont pas se rendre sans un ápre combat. Celui-ci durera probablement plus d'une séance. Et l'issue en demeure fort incertaine.

seance. Et l'issue en demeure fort incertaine.

Mardi soir, l'intérêt se concentrera aux Etats, où M. Albert Malche, d'accord avec presque tous ses collègues (sa demande, en effet, ne porte pas moins de 39 signatures) interpellera le Conseil fédéral sur l'entrevue Hitler-Schulthess. Il s'agit là d'une contremine, lancée par les groupes nationaux pour riposter aux socialistes, qui ont chargé M. Huber, le subtil dialecticien, de questionner le gouvernement sur la même affaire. Au National, outre M. Huber, M. Meyer de Lucerne. tionner le gouvernement sur la même affaire. Au National, outre M. Huber, M. Meyer de Lucerne, fournira à M. Motta l'occasion de s'expliquer. Seulement, comme le chef du département politique répondra d'abord à M. Malche, aux Etats, et lira, devant l'un et l'autre conseil, une déclaration écrite, la curiosité générale se trouvera déjà satisfaite par ce qui se sera passé chez les sénateurs. En telle sorte que les insinuantes paroles et les hochements de tête dubitatifs du rhéteur saint-gallois viendront, par la suite, comme moutarde après diner.

M. Motta dira dans quelles conditions M.

M. Motta dira dans quelles conditions M. Schulthess fut amené à s'entretenir avec le chancelier du Reich et montrera que l'attitude de l'ancien conseiller fédéral fut absolument correcte vis-à-vis des autorités responsables. Le texte de l'interpellation socialiste mentionne le fait que la démarche en question s'est accomplie sans le concours de notre légation à Berlin... Si toute vérité était bonne à dire, que de choses M. Motta pourrait raconter à ce propos!

BERTY JENNY. Mezzo-Soprano.

The musical inheritance of Berty Jenny can The musical inheritance of Berty Jenny can be traced back for many generations, the Jenny home in Basle, being always a centre of interest for local music lovers. To the intensely musical environment in which she passed her childhood may undoubtedly be attributed much of the remarkable musicianship which characterizes the singing of this artist. Her unusually beautiful voice and musical intelligence attracted attention at an early are and at seventeen she became at an early age, and at seventeen she became the pupil of Madame Emilie Weisser, the eminent the pupil of Madame Emilie Weisser, the eminent German Kammersaengerin. After several years of hard study, Berty Jenny made her debut in the opera "Das Rheingold" and participated as solist in various Bach and Haendel oratorios in her home town. Although her professional debut was made in opera, she soon realized that her chief musical interest lay in the interpretation of songs. Her ambition to become a lieder singer was made definite when she heard the great Brahms interpreter Madame Ilona Durigo of Budapest. She placed herself under the tutelage of this great authority and under the inspiration of her teaching. Miss Jenny learned the true art of song interpretation. The great teacher predicted a interpretation. The great teacher predicted a brilliant future for her unusually talented pupil, who gave a number of successful recitals in various European cities.

The enthusiasm with which her singing was received in Europe was duplicated upon her arrival in America. Her New York debut was made in Acolian Hall in October, 1926, and among her important American engagements have been appearances in "Die Walkuere" with the international Opera Festivals in Washington and New York, concerts at Wisconsin University, in Chicago and other cities.

Berty Jenny has won a definite place among the few great lieder singers of the day. She possesses a mezzo-soprano voice of rare beauty, a truly artistic individuality and a prepossessing and charming personality. She sings in English, German, French, Italian and Swiss and her repertory includes practically all the songs of the great masters, as well as the standard oratorios.
