AFRICAN SAND IN SWITZERLAND.

A violent south-westerly gale blew over Central and Western Switzerland, and much damage was done to the orchards on the banks of the Lake of Lucerne, many trees being uprooted.

At Muttensz, in Canton Basle, there was a fall of yellow sand, and at one time the air was so full of it that the countryside seemed to be wrapped in a thick mist. It appears that the sand came from Africa, and according to meteorologists it passed over the Alps at a height of 12,000ft. During the night a similar phenomenon was recorded in the Engadine, where there was a heavy fall of red sand, also from Africa.

FOOTBALL.

INTERNATIONAL MATCH, 17th May, 1937.

SWITZERLAND 1-0 IRISH FREE STATE 1

The Wankdorf Stadium, sports ground of the famous Young Boys in Bern, was half filled by about 16,000 spectators, Ireland proving of little attraction to the masses, particularly on a fine Whit Monday. In short, Switzerland should have won this game, as they showed marked superiority throughout. Alas, once again the forwards failed in finishing power; it's getting chronic! Dunne, the old Sheffield United, Arsenal and Southampton centre forward took his chance to score the only goal, to give his country victory.

MIDDLESEX WANDERERS' SWISS TOUR.

From all accounts, the 45th Continental Tour of Middlesex Wanderers Association Football Club may be acclaimed an unqualified success. Give me a team of keen and eager amateur footballers every time, in preference to some stale professional league eleven on a holiday jaunt, to get a true demonstration of English Football as it is played over here. The reports I have seen and heard are unanimous in complimenting the Wanderers on their fine play, every man putting his heart into the game for the full 90 minutes.

What more is there to be said? The results after all matter little. Actually the Wanderers lost to Lugano 2:3, the only place where the attendance proved very disappointing. Anyhow, the beautiful Ticinese scenery made up for it. At Lucerne the game ended 1:0 in Wanderers' favour; there the reception was in keeping with that famous resort's traditional friendship towards England's tourists. The best match was the game under floodlight against a combination of the two St. Gall clubs, F. C. St. Gall 1879 and F. C. Brühl, at the Espenmoos sports ground, St. Gall, before 2,500 enthusiastic spectators. Wanderers won by 3 goals to 2. The week previous, St. Gall had entertained F. C. Wacker, one of the best Viennese teams. The contrast in style, Austrian "Scheiberspiel" as against English effective football at top speed, provided a useful lesson for players and spectators alike. This match will be the talk of the town for many moons. The last game was also won by 2:0 against F. C. Schaffhausen.

The question of great interest to us exiled Swiss is, what is the present standard of football in Switzerland? I think, I can promise you a report on this subject in the near future, based on personal observation during the tour, from a more competent pen than mine.

I am glad that the reception accorded the Middlesex Wanderers in Switzerland, both on and off the field of play, has lived up to Swiss traditional hospitality, in which we take such pride. Foremost in this connection ranks the F. C. Zürich, celebrating their old friendship with the Wanderers at a specially arranged function, held at the Hotel St. Gotthard. But the Wanderers were not content with being fêted; they also played an active part in the proceedings. First, Dr. W. Baumeister of the F. C. Zürich was nominated Vice-President of their Association. Then, the clon of the evening, a surprise presentation to their other Swiss Vice-President, Mr. F. M. Gamper and Mrs. Gamper of a beautiful silver fruit-bowl, suitably engraved, the coinciding with our old Swiss international's silver wedding anniversary. May we take this opportunity to extend to our friends, Mr. and Mrs. Gamper, our hearty congratulations, coupled with our sincere wishes for many more happy years of married bliss.

And to conclude, the ancient toast: Three cheers for the Middlesex Wanderers and their leaders, Capt. H. and Mr. R. B. Alaway!
