The little village of Niederwald, in the canton of Valais, which lies at a height of 4,140 feet on the right bank of the River Rhône, has paid a moving tribute to the memory of one of its most famous "children" — César Ritz, famed throughout the world as the "King of hoteliers, and hotelier of Kings". Many hoteliers, went there to celebrate the birth of César Ritz 100 years ago. Among the guests were Mr. Hermann Seiler of Gletsch, former President of the Swiss Hoteliers Society, Mr. Franz Seiler, the present president, and Mr. S. A new theatrical award worth 12,000 Swiss francs (about £1,000) is being offered by the Swiss towns of Lausanne and Geneva. It will be presented for the first time at the beginning of 1953 to the author of an original play (lyric excepted) chosen by a jury of several prominent personalities from France and Switzerland headed by Mr. Roger Ferdinand, president of the Société des Auteurs et des Compositeurs Dramatiques in Paris.

French-speaking playwrights, without any distinction of nationality, can compete. But they must not send works that have ever been played, filmed, broadcast, televised, nor works translated or adapted from another language.

The plays must last for at least 120 minutes. The winning play will be presented by both the Lausanne Municipal Theatre and the Comédie Théâtre of Geneva, with well-known actors taking part. Rules can be obtained from the General Secretary of the "Grand Prix théâtral de Genève et Lausanne", Mr. Paul-Henri Jaccard, Avenue Benjamin-Constant 7, Lausanne.

A new book designed to make motoring easier has made its appearance in Switzerland. Edited by the Swiss Automobile Club, it has 178 pages and is full of useful information and advice. Special attention has been paid to international tourism. As well as advice about equipment needed for long journeys, there are details of customs formalities in different countries, and a list of the places in Europe where cars can be carried by ferry or plane. Helpful tips about driving technique — such as motoring in mountain country during winter — are also given.

One chapter is devoted to motoring in Switzerland. The Swiss Automobile Club is the only organisation of its kind in Switzerland, and the last part of the book outlines the services which the Club offers its members.
