49th LAUSANNE SWISS NATIONAL FAIR

7th-22nd September 1968

At a time when the flow of trade is increasing fast all over the world, the Lausanne National Fair, which for little short of fifty years has placed its services at the disposal of the Swiss economy and Switzerland's trade partners, announces the dates of its 49th edition, which have been fixed from 7th to 22nd September 1968.

An outstanding feature of the Lausanne Fair is that it periodically groups the country's main activities in French-speaking Switzerland, in the ideal setting of the Palais de Beaulieu, one of the best equipped exhibition complexes in Europe. It can count on the regular participation of over 2,000 exhibitors from agriculture, industry, trade and craftwork, and the attendance of a million visitors, a figure that represents a fifth of the total population of the country.

One after another, in two foreign pavilions, Switzerland's trade partners are invited each year to take part in this tremendous demonstration of commercial vitality. This year, the Netherlands and Rumania, welcomed as guests of honour by the Swiss Federal Council, will be officially represented at the 49th Lausanne Fair and will display, in two separate pavilions, a synthesis of their economies, completed by an overall view of their ways and customs, their liberal arts and their folkloric traditions.

The Lausanne Fair, whose commercial mission goes hand in hand with a desire to inform the public, will also have the privilege of welcoming, as its official cantonal guest, the Canton of Thurgau. In addition, it will present an exhibition devoted to the very topical theme of "Vocational Training", under the patronage of the relevant professional authorities and the trade associations invited to contribute. Finally, as every year, it will also feature picturesque and colourful horse and cattle shows and markets which continue, in spite of the industrial evolution, to make this Fair one of the strongholds of Swiss agriculture.

The Lausanne Fair offers its foreign visitors a number of facilities, concerning which Switzerland's official agencies in all countries will gladly supply further information.
