OBITUARIES

R. J. Keller

Robert Jacob Keller was born on 19th March, 1902, at Berg (Thurgau) in Switzerland. His early youth was spent on his parents' farm until at the age of 12 the family moved to Zürich. Shortly before that time his Father had died as a result of an accident on the farm.

In his early years at Berg he soon realised the value of meeting people and of extending to them a warm welcome. This he learnt at the restaurant in the village which was owned by his family, and those early impressions Robert carried with him all his life.

In Zürich the young Robert Keller undertook a banking apprenticeship. Later he moved to the former Comptoir d'Escompte de Genève, then on to Milan, but he returned to Switzerland soon after following the political difficulties in Italy at that time. He joined the Bank of Herisau (Appenzell) returning later to Zürich where he was persuaded to join a merchant bank in the City of London. Thus in 1927 Robert Keller came to Britain, the country which he made his second home. His merchant banking experience took him through the crises of the late 1920s and early 1930s, when after having successfully untangled the financial problems of an important company to the satisfaction both of creditors and shareholders, he was invited to join an important Scottish whisky distillery as Managing Director.

So our Robert Keller became a magnet in the Scottish whisky industry earning, as he did in whatever he undertook, a first-class reputation. A major American company in the whisky business tried to tempt him to move to America but he felt that his roots were firmly established in Great Britain. In 1954 the Crédit Suisse was able to tempt him to join them to establish their Representative Office to be based in London. Quickly he made his mark felt in City banking circles establishing for himself and his Bank many deep-rooted friendships. He will be long remembered by London City bankers not only for his professional knowledge and skill, but also for the warmth of his personality. He took an active part in The Overseas Bankers Club Golf Society and the City Swiss Club, of which he was President of both. At the same time, he was a director of several important international companies.

In November, 1961, he was elected Chairman of the Swiss Observer Advisory Council when Mr. R-de Cintra died. On relinquishing this office, he was made Hon. President on 25th March, 1970.

In 1968 when he was about to retire, he had a serious operation. His great strength and courage helped to carry him through to continue an active life. Around the same time, however, he lost his wife, Betty, but his last years were greatly helped by his present wife, Mary, the widow of an old family friend of many years' standing. His daughter, Anna, is in the hotel business, something in which Robert gave her much encouragement. It is a great comfort that Mary not only has another daughter in Anna, but she has her own fine family, Richard and Ann.

A service was held at the Eglise du Prieure at Pully conducted by Minister C. Stacey Woods, General Secretary of the International Fellowship of Evangelical Students.

H. R. Bolliger

It is with deep regret that we have to announce the sudden death of Dr. Hans Rudi Bolliger, of Fern Cottage, Mereside Road, Mere, Cheshire. He died in Lugano in the early hours of 15th December.

Hans Rudi Bolliger came from Basle and was educated in Neuchâtel and at the University of Basle where he got his doctorate in chemistry in 1946. Having studied under Prof. Reichstein, his interest in research had been awakened at an early stage, and after his graduation he went to the Iowa State College in U.S.A. for a period of post-doctoral research under Prof. Gilman. He became engaged in research work with CIBA Ltd in Basle in 1952, in the Dyestuffs Research Division. And in 1955, he joined the Clayton Aniline Company Ltd in Manchester. He was Research and Development Director of the Company and a F.R.I.C.

He played a prominent part in the affairs of the Society of Chemical Industry, being Chairman of the Manchester Section from 1967 to 1969. At the time of his death he was the Society's Honorary Secretary for Foreign Affairs and the first Chairman of the Industrial Health and Safety Group, which he helped to found. He was also a Council member of the Manchester Literary and Philosophical Society.

His activities included sailing, golf and rifle shooting, and he was greatly interested in art and music. Readers of the Swiss Observer will remember an article in the July issue last year, in which his appointment as Chairman of the Manchester and District Branch of the Royal National Life-Boat Institution was reported. He and his wife sailed their own 12-ton sloop "Vogel Gryff II", and had been doing a great deal of voluntary work for the Institution for many years. Dr. Bolliger held an instructor's certificate of the Department of Trade and Industry and the Royal Yachting Association.

The Swiss community knew him best as a great worker and true patriot in the best sense of the word. He was a member of several Swiss organisations, including the Nouvelle Société Helvétique in London. He was a past-President of the Manchester Swiss Club.

Hans Rudi Bolliger was the delegate for the Swiss in Great Britain North on the Commission of the Swiss Abroad in Berne. As his colleague I can testify to his fairness and integrity when the interests of his compatriots were involved. He was a staunch fighter against political rights for the Swiss abroad, and I am proud to have been fighting in the same direction alongside him. His great energy, quick intelligence and dislike of superficiality made him a grand companion, and not least his sense of humour, so typically Bâlois. He will be much missed in the "Little Parliament" of the Swiss Abroad, where he has made a mark not easily deleted.

Our deep sympathy and loving thoughts go out to his wife Trudy, his daughter Regula, now married in Basle, and to his mother.

All his many friends will remember him as the staunch and loyal man he was and consider it a precious privilege to have known him.

C. Seinet

It is with great regret that we announce the death of Mr. Charles Seinet, of Les Murs Blancs 2, 1814 La Tour-de-Peilz. He died on 30th November in his 84th year.

He was born in Neuchâtel where he was educated. After a stay in Frankfurt, he came to this country in 1913 to take up an appointment with a shipping firm in London. During World War I he did military service in Switzerland and in between army duties, he did a training course with the Bally Shoe Factories. He then took over the first retail establishment in Lausanne and came to London in 1924 as manager and buyer with the London Shoe Company. He became its managing director in 1932 and he remained with the company until he retired to Switzerland in 1960.

Charles Seinet was a well-known personality in the Swiss community in London, together with his charming wife. He was a member of the City Swiss Club from 1927 onwards, became Honorary Secretary and later President (from 1951 to 1953).

We extend our sincere sympathy to Madame Seinet, their son and family in their sad bereavement.

The announcement of his death had a quotation from Prov. 19:22 "Ce qui fait le charme d'un homme, c'est sa bonté". That is how we shall remember Charles Seinet.

P.S. The family did not wish any flowers, but possible donations to the Royal National Life-Boat Institution.

The Swiss writer Ernst Zahn died on 12th February 1952.

Inn on the Park. After dark

Apart from being quite the most beautiful hotel in London, the Inn on the Park is also quite the most perfect rendezvous. It's the place to meet after dark, after theatre, after a hard day's work, after anything. It also lets you start any evening as you mean to go on. In style.

There's the military splendour of the Vintage Bar. Or the Four Seasons Bar, just large enough to ensure that the only thing that's crushed is the ice in your drink. And speaking of comfort, the Inn on the Park has one of the few really civilised lounges left in London.

In fact, such is the attraction of starting or concluding any evening at the Inn on the Park, that people naturally wish to spend the middle of it with us as well. For these discerning people we have a delicious alternative.

Lounge

The Vintage Room is that rare thing. A sophisticated night spot where you can dine like a king and dance with your hands around your partner, not your ears. Live music and very much alive atmosphere till 2 a.m.

For those for whom gastronomic pleasures are to be taken seriously, there is the Four Seasons Room.

Unquestionably, this is one of Europe's finest restaurants. Created by people who know about good food for the remaining few who really appreciate it. The service is pure magic and the ambience pure Inn on the Park. Try it. After dark.
