*) System change from 2000 (overnights additionally generated by ST) to 2001 (total number of overnights directly generated by ST). No direct comparison can therefore be made.

Operating costs, as a percentage of total expenditure, continued to fall, allowing more funds to flow into our marketing activities. The percentage of total expenditure accounted for by marketing climbed from 83% to 85%, a rise that can be attributed to a further increase in operating efficiency brought about by a reduction of space and administration costs. The level of self-financing improved by a further 8% thanks to additional membership subscriptions, contributions from corporate partners and marketing campaigns with tourism partners. In general, the development of partner-related revenues is encouraging. The percentage of total expenditure taken up by staffing costs fell slightly and, considering our heavily staff-oriented, one-to-one marketing policy in key account management and key media management, remains at an ambitious and healthy level. In the 2001 business year our marketing operations focused mainly on key media management, resulting in a further 70% increase in our media contacts compared to the previous year.

The incorporation of additional business plans with tour operators and directly bookable top offerings from our partners in the tourism industry led to an increase in the number of room nights influenced by Switzerland Tourism in 2001 that was far beyond our target.

Tourism revenues generated by each franc spent on marketing (marketing leverage) climbed to almost CHF 21.50 as a result of additional marketing campaigns and the more efficient use of marketing tools. In overall terms the tourism revenues influenced by Switzerland Tourism increased markedly. All in all it is safe to say that Switzerland Tourism continues to make more efficient and productive use of the funds at its disposal.
