Professor of Psychology with Emphasis on Judgment and Decision Making

The successful candidate is expected to have excellent credentials in research and teaching in the field of cognitive psychology and/or social psychology.

The position is at the Institute for Behavioral Science in the Department of Humanities, Social and Political Sciences (D-GESS) and will become a part of the interdisciplinary Behavioral Studies Section (www.gess.ethz.ch) dealing with decision making. A further research area of special interest for the successful applicant should be individual prerequisites for behavior in a social context.

He or she is expected to interface well with colleagues from other disciplines in research and teaching and to offer attractive courses within the scope of the required electives in the humanities and social sciences as well as in the new courses of study for the bachelor's and master's candidates in the scientific and technical subjects. Furthermore, a significant contribution to the establishment of graduate studies is expected. Courses at Master level may be taught in English.

Please submit your application together with a curriculum vitae, a list of publications, and a list of completed projects to the President of ETH Zurich, Prof. Dr. Ralph Eichler, Raemistrasse 101, 8092 Zurich, Switzerland, no later than April 30, 2008. With a view towards increasing the proportion of female professors, ETH Zurich specifically encourages female candidates to apply.

Assistant Professor (Tenure Track) of Computational Biology

The Department of Biology (www.biol.ethz.ch/index\_EN) at ETH Zurich invites applications for a position of Assistant Professor (Tenure Track) in the area of Computational Biology.

Life Science Zurich and the Department of Biology offer outstanding scientific opportunities to participate in interdisciplinary research projects, including close interactions with SystemsX.ch, the Swiss initiative for systems biology, the Functional Genomics Center Zurich and the ETH Laboratory of Computational Science and Engineering. Involvement in the biology teaching program, including teaching within an inter-departmental Master's curriculum in bioinformatics, is expected. Courses at Master level may be taught in English.

Candidates are expected to build a strong, independent research program in theoretical or applied computational biology. Research areas include but are not limited to the development of novel algorithms for the analysis of molecular networks and their dynamic change in cells, using information available from three-dimensional protein structures and genomic, proteomic, and metabolomic data. The new Assistant Professor will be a member of the Institute of Molecular Systems Biology.

Assistant professorships have been established to promote the careers of younger scientists. The initial appointment is for four years with the possibility of renewal for an additional twoyear period and promotion to a permanent position.

Please submit your application together with a curriculum vitae, a list of publications and a detailed research plan, to the President of ETH Zurich, Raemistrasse 101, 8092 Zurich, Switzerland, no later than May 31, 2008. With a view towards increasing the proportion of female professors, ETH Zurich specifically encourages female candidates to apply.
